WHAT IS HAPPENING IN RUSSIA.

EXTRACTS FROM THE LATEST NEWS.

The Bolshevik news agencies keep the papers of the Far East constantly supplied, "free" gratis and for nothing, with news of what is happening in Russia, from the Bolshevik angle of view, of course. Columns come by every mail from the distributing agency established in Peking. As a rule the news is assigned to the Editorial writer's paper basket, but we think readers may be interested in the following selections from a recent budget, it only as evidence of the inviolable optimism of the communist leaders:—

Moscow (via Manchuli), June 13th.

The first session of the new Moscow Soviet was held amid solemn surroundings in the presence of representatives of district soviets and the trade union conference. The report by the central election commission shows that the workers and one hundred fifteen deputies were elected; 1,543 Communists, 333 Non-Partisans and 30 of different parties, Mensheviks, Social-Revolutionaries, Volinists, Anarchists, etc. Mr. Kameney was unanimously re-elected the chairman. He thanked the Moscow proletariat for its confidence and presented an extensive report on the external and internal situation of Soviet Russia, describing the conditions under which the Russian proletariat embarks upon the construction of a new life.

The Moscow Soviet is one of the many soviets in the republic, said Mr. Kameney. "We are a part of the working-class which takes upon itself the task of directing the political and economic régime. We are aware that the exploitation of workers throughout the history and that the exploited workers repeatedly rose to overthrow the power of the exploiting class. This is inscribed upon the bloodstained pages of history. But never in history were such risings successful, with the only exception of Russia, where we workers and peasants are in the fourth year of power."

"It would be premature to imagine that the desired Communist State has already come," continued Mr. Kameney. "We are in merely a transitional stage to the glorious goal. Thanks to the countless sacrifices of workers and peasants, the proletariat State has beaten back all enemies and the federation of workers' republics based on proletarian dominance, now extends from the White to Black Sea and from the Pacific to Niemen."

Concerning the tasks before the Russian proletariat at the present moment, Mr. Kameney pointed to a series of important reforms: the socialistic policy resulting from the substitution of food tax for food levy. Mr. Kameney appealed for co-operation of all honest workers in the great work before the Moscow Soviet in the present reconstructive period. "Without the support of all urban and rural workers, we cannot succeed. It will be a general calamity if a considerable body of workers and peasants think it is possible to govern a country without the guidance of the leading Communist Party to show the way. The new Soviet will work in such a way that when the election next takes place every Moscow worker and every peasant will know that their representatives think only of them and their welfare."

Mr. Kameney's concluding words were vociferously applauded. Mr. Krassin then addressed the Soviet on the work and achievement of the Soviet Trade Delegation in London. His appeals to the Russian proletariat and to universal workers were adopted.

Moscow (via Manchuli), June 14th. A resolution adopted by the 11th All-Russia Communist Conference, commands the new economic policy of the Soviet Government as capable of lasting for a long period of years, and instructs all concerned to aid in the realization of this policy. It maintains that the exchange of commodities forms the gist of the policy. Close relations between the proletariat and the peasantry and an endurable economic union between the two classes during the transitional period from Capitalism to Socialism are indispensable without establishing a systematic commodity exchange between urban and rural population. This kind of trading will tend to stimulate the peasantry.

In view of the importance of co-operation in commodity exchange, the conference endorsed the agreement entered into by the Food Commissariat and the Central Co-operative union authorizing the latter to be the sole trading organ for the Government in commodity exchange.

The conference was of the opinion that co-operation must be encouraged and supported. Small and medium enterprises, both private and co-operative, must be supported without interfering with free trade. The Government may lease state-owned enterprises to private persons, corporations, or co-operatives, and local economic organs are authorized to enter into such agreement without consulting their superiors.

The resolution further encourages self-activity and initiation of every big industrial enterprise, and favours the development of the system of partial payment in produce, recommends stricter penalties for waste and abuse of State-owned property, and finally urges the members and supporters throughout the country to back up and help realise all governmental measures along the above described lines.

The Moscow "Pravda," commenting on the 11th All-Russia Communist Conference and its resolution on the economic policy, observes that the interval between that last and his conference gave the members and the country an opportunity to test and find out the efficiency of the new economic policy. The result of the Conference demonstrates once more the unity and cohesion of the Russian Communist Party.

A delegation representing Finnish trust, steel and paper manufacturers and financiers, has arrived at Moscow. It proposes to supply Russia in the near future, with farming implements and machines, printing paper and hardware in exchange for Russian raw materials such as hemp, flax, etc.

449 carloads of machines and farming implements, 299 carloads of flax seeds and 200 carloads of other goods for agricultural needs have arrived at Moscow. In the near future there will arrive from foreign ports 304 carloads of ploughs, 197 carloads of harvesting machines, 103 carloads of threshing machines, 78 cars of reapers, and spare parts, 70 carloads of chain-cutters and 190 carloads of seed-ploughs and accessories. In return, the Soviet Government is exporting 435 cars of flax and hemp, 320 cars of tobacco, and 234 cars of asbestos as a partial payment for these machines.

The Zhovir conference of provincial Soviets testifies to the successful completion of the agrarian program despite difficult conditions in a country only recently liberated from foreign enemies and the White Guards bands. "The cultivated area of this region (the Volhynia) reaches the 1918 standard. Demobilized army units assisted, both in sowing and reaping implements. In connection with the Soviet order on food-tax, the provincial administration has established numerous trading points for exchanging goods for farming produce with the peasants. They are greatly interested in the agronomic science and have asked Ukraina for assistance in opening schools with such courses.—Rosta."

Artisan industries are highly developed in the Touva autonomous region. The Caucasian Mountain Soviet Republic has begun a mercantile shipbuilding programme on a large scale.—Rosta.

The All-Russian Deaf-Mute Workers Conference has addressed warm greetings to Mr. Trotsky, calling him "The Genius of the victorious Red Army" which liberated Russia from invasion and revolution and made peaceful development possible.

GERMANY ACCEPTS THE ALLIES' DEMANDS.

"NO RESERVE OR CONDITION."

In both Houses of Parliament on May 11th announcement was made of the complete and unreserved acceptance by Germany of the ultimatum recently presented by the Allies. It was received with hearty and general cheers from the whole House. The Reichstag at Berlin, after hearing a statement by the new Chancellor, Herr Wirth, voted by 221 to 175 in favour of accepting the Allies' ultimatum. Dr. Stinner, the German Ambassador, visited 10, Downing-street, on May 11th, and handed to Mr. Lloyd George the following Note:—

9, Carlton House-terrace, S.W. 1, May 11th, 1921.

MR. PRIME MINISTER.—In accordance with instructions just received, I am commanded by my Government, in accordance with the decision of the Reichstag, and with reference to the resolution of the Allied Powers of May 8th, 1921, in the name of the new German Government, to declare, as desired, the following:—

The German Government is resolved:—

(1)—To carry out, without reserve or condition, their obligations as defined by the Reparation Commission;

(2)—To accept and to carry out, without reserve or condition, the guarantees in respect of those obligations prescribed by the Reparation Commission;

(3)—To carry out, without reserve or delay, the measures of military, naval, and aerial disarmament notified to the Government by the Allied Powers in the Note of January 29th, 1921, those overdue being completed at once and the remainder by the prescribed dates;

(4)—To carry out, without reserve or delay, the trial of the war criminals, and to execute the other unfulfilled portions of the Treaty referred to in the first paragraph of the Note of the Allied Governments of May 8th.

I ask the Allied Powers to take note immediately of this declaration, etc., etc.

(Signed) STINER.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS. WORK OF THE OPIUM COMMITTEE.

The League of Nations Advisory Committee on the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs held its first session at Geneva from May 2-6. The Committee was set up by the Council following a resolution of the Assembly, and on the suggestion of the Netherlands Government. Its function is to assist and advise the Council in supervising the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs, a duty laid upon the League by Article 21 of the Covenant. The members of the Committee are: M. W. G. van Veltum (Holland, Chairman), Sir Malcolm Delevingne (Great Britain, Vice-Chairman), M. Gaston Kahn (France), Their Excellencies A. Ariyoshi (Japan), Tang Tsai-fou (China), and Prince Chareon (Siam), Mr. J. Campbell (India), and Mr. H. Ferreira (Portugal). To the Committee are attached three expert advisers, called assessors, Sir John Jordan, late British Minister at Peking, Mr. Brenier, late French Minister at Bangkok and Shanghai, and Mrs. Hamilton Wright, who with her husband has been the most distinguished American worker in the campaign against the opium evil.

At its outset the Committee found itself faced with a decided difference of opinion between Prince Chareon of Siam and two of the assessors—Sir John Jordan and Mrs. Hamilton Wright—on the one hand and Mr. Campbell, the representative for India, on the other. The third assessor, M. Brenier, and Sir Malcolm Delevingne were the chief spokesmen for the majority of the Committee, which occupied an intermediate position. The difference in opinion began with the competence of the Committee and the interpretation of certain clauses of the Hague Opium Convention, and extended to questions of fact and policy.

Mr. Campbell held that under Article 23 of the Convention the League's sole concern was to supervise the Hague Opium Convention, and that anything beyond this was ultra vires for the League. Furthermore, he pointed out that the Convention dealt differently with raw opium (Chapter I), prepared opium (Chapter II), and medicinal opium, morphine, cocaine, heroin and similar drugs (Chapter III). The Convention is most drastic about prepared opium (i.e., opium prepared for smoking), whose import the Contracting Powers are pledged immediately to prohibit, and whose export, sale, manufacture and use, they are to suppress as far as possible. Article 13 of Chapter III, clearly stipulates that the Contracting Powers are to permit the export of medicinal opium, morphine, cocaine, heroin and so forth, only to persons who possess licences issued by the Government of the importing country. On the other hand, Chapter I, dealing with raw opium, merely states that (Article 3) the Contracting Powers are to control the export of raw opium to countries restricting its import, and to prevent its export to countries that have prohibited entry, and furthermore (Art. 5) to confine export and import to duly authorised persons. As Mr. Campbell interpreted the Convention it imposed no restriction whatever on the cultivation of the poppy or the export of raw opium, save the obligation to co-operate with countries limiting or prohibiting its import.

Acting on this view he desired that the enquiry which Sir Malcolm Delevingne, the British delegate, proposed should be made through the Secretariat, on the average requirements of every country for the drugs mentioned in the Convention, should be limited to the drugs mentioned in Chapter III. On the other hand, Sir John Jordan argued that unless the Hague Convention restricted the growing of opium to the amounts necessary to satisfy medical or other legitimate needs it was hardly likely to prove of any use so far as China was concerned, for so long as opium was grown in large quantities it would be sure to find its way to the consumer, in spite of all import and export regulations. Mrs. Hamilton Wright strongly supported this view and added that if the League's power for dealing with the opium traffic were so limited as Mr. Campbell suggested, no time should be lost in calling together a new Hague Conference, empowered to amend the Convention.

Sir Malcolm Delevingne, backed by the majority of the Committee, thought that by the terms of the Assembly Resolution the Committee was authorised to discuss and express an opinion on any questions that arose in connection with the opium and dangerous drugs traffic, but that it would be wiser to defer recommendations for strengthening the Hague Convention until such time as the Committee had had a few months to consider the working of the Convention, and the information contained in the answers to its questionnaire as to the execution of the Convention. The Committee adopted Mr. Campbell's suggestion that the enquiry as to the requirements of drugs be limited to Chapter III drugs. It also unanimously passed the following resolution:

"The Committee recommends the Council to suggest to the Parties to the International Opium Convention that in order to enable the Government to carry out their obligations under Articles 3 and 5, and under Article 13 of the Convention, the following procedure should be adopted:—Every order for the export to an importer of a supply of any of the drugs shall be accompanied by a certificate from the Government of the importing country that the import of the consignment in question is approved by that Government and is required for legitimate purposes."

There was general agreement that the War had greatly increased the gravity of the opium and drug questions, partly by postponing the application of the Hague Convention (the Convention, although concluded in 1912, did not come into force until January 10th of this year), partly by relaxing some of the measures already taken in various countries against the drug traffic, and partly owing to the amount of opium grown and sold for the medical needs of the various belligerent armies. To-day the four chief opium-growing countries are China, Persia, Turkey, and India. Of these China grows far more than all the rest put together—Mr. Campbell declared twenty-five to forty times as much as India, which grows about as much as Turkey and a little less than Persia. Sir John thought the figure for China exaggerated, but admitted there were no exact figures and the amount was certainly large. India is a party to the Hague Convention, whose provisions she strictly enforces and in some cases even goes beyond. Persia is also a party to the Convention, but with reservations on vital clauses. Turkey will automatically become a party whenever she ratifies the Sevrès Treaty.

Remains China, China who owing to her size and immense population is the heart of the whole opium question. Sir John Jordan described the position in that country; China is a party to the Convention, and besides that had four years ago cleared herself of opium owing to a tremendous joint effort on the part of the Government and public opinion. Sir John particularly insisted on the strength of this public opinion and on the extraordinary success of this effort to wipe out a centuries-old evil at a blow. No sooner had China, however, destroyed all the opium within her borders than enormous quantities began to be smuggled in from abroad. This was the time, according to Sir John, to have restricted the cultivation of opium in other countries to the amounts strictly necessary for medicines, etc. This was not done, and Sir John was positive and offered to prove by facts and figures that some of the smuggled opium came from India and from Governments to whom India had exported its raw opium. He also blamed the opium monopolies in Singapore, as well as in Hongkong, Macao, and other leased territories. In these circumstances, the fight against opium eventually in China collapsed. The situation was further complicated by the political dissensions within China. To-day opium is being grown in three large provinces, whose military governors defy the distant Central Government, and encourage the cultivation of the poppy in order to raise revenue for their troops. In addition the whole of North China is flooded with morphine, smuggled in from some unknown source abroad.

In conclusion Sir John said he was confident that China, in spite of the present deplorable and dangerous situation, was still capable of overcoming the opium evil, provided she were loyally backed by the rest of the world. But he considered the only effective measure of support was drastically to restrict the cultivation of opium. Prince Chareon of Siam remarked that the main difficulty of suppressing the opium traffic in Siam was due to the smuggling of opium from Burma. Mr. Campbell, in reply, pointed out that the whole of this discussion was ultra vires for the Committee and the League, since the League had only the power to supervise the execution of the Hague Convention, and that Convention said nothing whatever about restricting the cultivation of opium. He dwelt on the difficulty of arriving at the Hague Convention—it took two decades to get the Convention concluded. That Convention had been in force exactly four months, and the Committee had as yet no information as to the extent to which it had been applied and its effect in practice. In the circumstances was it not too early to suggest scrapping this instrument and getting a new one before some fuller attempt had been made to test its possibilities? As to the India Government's opium policy, Mr. Campbell denied that it was influenced by revenue considerations or in any way responsible for China's present troubles. The best proof of both these statements was that the India Government had after the Shanghai Agreement of 1907 sacrificed 24,000,000 of annual revenue—an amount equal to 81 per cent. of the total revenue and necessitating internal taxation to make good the loss—and cut down her export by 20 per cent. in order to help China. The annual export of raw opium from India had dropped from 16,000 chests to 10,000 chests, and the area under cultivation from 600,000 acres to 100,000 acres. Of the exports 77 per cent. are consigned to foreign governments, and only 23 per cent. some 2,300 chests, go to China. As for the suggestion that some of the opium sent to foreign governments found its way to China, he could only say that the issue raised was the very delicate one of the veracity of foreign governments. In any case the India Government would not permit the export of opium to any irresponsible government likely to permit its abuse. As for Burma, the difficulty there was enormous. The government of Burma came to the conclusion that they could not prohibit cultivation during the war without provoking the risk of insurrection. Now, however, the matter had been taken up again. There were three distinct regions in Burma: the Administrative prohibition; in the Provinces where the government have control, gradual suppression; the third area, close to the Siamese border, is inhabited by wild tribes, and here the Government are powerless to prevent smuggling. The amount of opium produced there is however small. So long as China is growing something like 90 per cent. of the world's opium, to India's and Turkey's 3 per cent. and Persia's 4 per cent., it would be a meaningless sacrifice to abolish the cultivation of the poppy in India, where it is strictly controlled.

The Committee finally adopted His Excellency M. Tang Tsai Fou's suggestion that the Council be recommended to call the attention of the signatories of the Hague Convention to Article 5, Chapter IV, of the Hague Convention, pledging them to help the Chinese Government to prevent the smuggling into China of the drugs mentioned in the Convention. Sir John Jordan's suggestion was also adopted asking the Council to request the Treaty Powers to exercise pressure, through their Consular and other representatives in China, on the provincial governments, in order to get them to take measures against the traffic in opium. This step should only be taken, explained Sir John, provided the consent of the Central Government were first obtained and it was made perfectly clear that no interference in China's internal affairs or any political objects whatever were intended. His Excellency M. Tang Tsai Fou abstained from voting on this resolution, and, speaking as a representative of the Central Government, declared that at present there was only one province—Kwan Tung—that had not submitted to the Central Government, and warned against the possibility of exaggerated accounts getting abroad as to the amount of opium growing in China: each of the two conflicting parties was in the habit of accusing the other of encouraging the cultivation of opium in order to exploit the opium thus incurred. A further suggestion of Sir John's was adopted, namely to engage an expert from Hongkong, the gate-way of the opium traffic, on leave in Europe, to sift and clarify the information contained in the answers to the Committee's questionnaire received from China.

This questionnaire, and a supplementary questionnaire on hashish, cocaine and similar drugs, is the main work of the Committee's first session. It is a very detailed and carefully worded document of six pages, to be sent through the Council of the League and the Netherlands Government to all governments, both members and non-members of the League.

The answers are to be asked for within three months from the European and seven from Far Eastern governments, and will furnish the fullest information in existence on the measures and laws against the abuse of dangerous drugs taken under the Hague Convention or otherwise, their effect in practice, and the production, consumption, and trade in opium and dangerous drugs. Furthermore the Committee recommended the Council to make an enquiry through the Secretariat of the League as to the average requirements of all countries of the drugs mentioned in Chapter III of the Hague Convention, and to make an energetic effort to get all governments both members and non-members of the League—non-members to be approached through the Netherlands Government—to ratify the Hague Convention.

Notably Persia, one of the four opium-growing countries, will be asked to withdraw her reservations. The Committee will make a short report on its findings and recommendations to the forthcoming June meeting of the Council, in time to allow the 2nd Assembly next September, and a long report, based on the information received from the answers to the questionnaire, in time for the 3rd Assembly in September, 1922.

PORTUGUESE CRISIS.

A BLOODLESS COUP.

Lisbon, May 22nd.

President Almeida having accepted the representation of the military junta as an indication of the wish of the country for the dismissal of the Government of Senhor Machado, first entrusted Senhor Thome Barros Queiroz, the Liberal, with the formation of a national Ministry. He declined, however, without a dissolution of Parliament, holding that the existing Parliament offered no guarantees for a rapid approval of the measures deemed urgently necessary for the salvation of the country.

Senhor Augusto Soares, Foreign Minister in the Government of the "Union Sagrada," was then entrusted at mid-day with the formation of a Government. The recently-appointed commandant of the National Guard has resigned, together with his chief of staff. Perfect order has, however, been maintained.

"There is, for the moment, some obscurity about this latest Portuguese coup. The movement is obviously due to the intervention of the military, though there is no indication as to what political objects they are supporting, and all reports agree in stating that the coup has been carried out with the minimum of violence and without bloodshed. The fallen Prime Minister, Senhor Machado, was, it will be remembered, a staunch supporter of the Allies during the war—Times.

AN OFFICIAL ACCOUNT.

The Portuguese Legation make the following statement from official news received yesterday:—

The Government, feeling that they did not possess all the necessary conditions to continue in office, though no adverse vote had been passed in Parliament, examined the whole situation at a Cabinet meeting at which it was decided to tender their resignation. This was accepted by the President of the Republic, who immediately undertook the usual constitutional démarches for solving the Cabinet crisis.

Threats of disturbances have entirely disappeared and complete order and quiet prevail throughout the country.

MAIL BAG WHICH WAS OVERCARRIED.

INTERESTING APPEAL CASE AT SINGAPORE.

An interesting appeal came before the Chief Justice, Sir Walter S. Shaw and Justices Whitley and Branch, at Singapore, last week. It was an appeal against a decision given by Mr. Justice Barrett Lennard, the case arising through a letter containing a bill of lading being overcarried by the Thongwa. The appellants, Messrs. Rouse and Co., and the British India Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., were represented by Mr. G. S. Carver and Mr. A. J. Shelley. Thompson appeared for the respondent, S. Nanyanasamy.

Mr. Carver said the appellants in fact were really the British Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., and the original judgment given against them was only for $30, but there were questions involved which were of great importance to shipowners who carried mails in their steamers, because if they were liable to the owners of letters entrusted to their care, it was easy to see that by an over-carryage of a mail bag, it might involve very large sums indeed. As their Lordships would see, in the present case the damages awarded were nominal, $30 in respect of one letter.

Mr. Justice-Branch said that otherwise than in exceptional cases, damages as in the present case would always be nominal.

Mr. Carver said there were two grounds of appeal and the first one dealt with the question that a carrier of mails was not a bailee of goods and was not liable, but he could not deal with that view. He had been unable, although he had made a long search through a number of authorities, to discover any case which supported that view or differentiated the matter from the ordinary case of a bailee being liable as trustee. He would base his argument on his second ground of appeal, which was to seek protection under Section 16 of the Straits Settlements Post Office Ordinance.

The Chief Justice asked Mr. Carver if he admitted his first ground of appeal was a bad one, and in reply Mr. Carver said he was in rather a difficult position, as he had been instructed from Calcutta.

He thought the facts of the case were very simple and were not in dispute. Respondent enclosed a bill of lading in a letter and posted it. The bag containing the letter should have been handed in at the Post Office, Penang, whence the mails were sent to their destination. By an error, however, the mail officer over-carried that particular mail bag and the result was that the respondent was unable to take delivery of the goods (a box containing coin) on the ship's arrival. Mr. Carver said their contention was that the officers of the postal department were entitled to protection by Section 16 of the Post Office Ordinance. He then went on to refer to the agreement dated December 4th, 1912, between the Government and the B.I.S.N. Co. by which mails were to be carried.

Mr. Shelley-Thompson said that respondent posted the letter to Negapatam in India and it was conveyed by the Thongwa. The mail officer referred to was the ship's officer, the second officer he believed, and it was in the ordinary course of his duties, as officer on a steamer employed as independent carriers, to land that mail bag at Penang, where it would be reported and sent on to India. That bag was not landed at Penang and it did not reach India for a considerable time. First of all it was over-carried to another port and then brought back to Penang. Meanwhile the respondents were unable to obtain delivery of his box of coin, owing to the absence of the bill of lading. The Thongwa carried the box containing the coins and the mail bag in question also. They charged a sum of $1,000 for carrying that box, which occupied a very small space in the safe. When the consignee applied for delivery he was not able to get it, owing to the fault of the person or persons over-carrying the bill of lading. They not only prevented him taking delivery of the box but they brought it back to Singapore and wanted him to pay another $1,000 "because we have brought the box back."

Mr. Shelley-Thompson said he submitted the $30 damages were not sufficient and that a much larger sum should have been awarded.

The Chief Justice: I think you are trying to enlist our sympathies. (Laughter.)

Their Lordships said they would put their decisions in writing.

HONGKONG LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

THE RESTRICTION OF RENTS OF DOMESTIC TENEMENTS.

FIRST READING OF THE BILL.

A meeting of the Legislative Council was held in the Council Chamber, yesterday afternoon. There were present: His EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR (Sir REGINALD EDWARD STUBBS, K.C.M.G.) Hon. THE OFFICER COMMANDING THE TROOPS (Major-General Sir GEORGE M. KIRKPATRICK, K.C.S.I., K.C.B.) Hon. Mr. CLAUD SEVERN, C.M.G. (Colonial Secretary). Hon. Mr. J. H. KEMP, K.C., C.B.E. (Attorney-General). Hon. Mr. C. McI. MESSER, O.B.E. (Colonial Treasurer). Hon. Mr. E. A. IRVING (Director of Education). Hon. Mr. S. B. C. ROSS (Secretary for Chinese Affairs). Hon. Mr. T. L. PERKINS (Director of Public Works). Hon. Mr. H. E. POLLOCK, K.C. Hon. Mr. P. H. HOLYOAK. Hon. Mr. HO FOCK. Hon. Mr. H. W. BIRD. Hon. Mr. A. G. STEPHEN. Mr. S. B. B. McELDERBY (Clerk of Councils).

MINUTES.

The minutes of the last meeting of the Council were approved and signed by the President.

FINANCE.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY, by command of H.E. the Governor, laid on the table Financial Minutes Nos. 50, 51, and 52, and moved that they be referred to the Finance Committee.

The COLONIAL TREASURER seconded and the motion was agreed to.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY by command of H.E. the Governor laid on the table the report of the proceedings of the Finance Committee No. 7 and moved that it be adopted.

The COLONIAL TREASURER seconded and the motion was agreed to.

FOOD PRICES CONTROL.

The Hon. Mr. H. E. POLLOCK, K.C., in accordance with notice previously given, asked the following questions:—

1.—Has the Committee for fixing the prices of food and other necessities been dissolved and if so when was it dissolved and why? If not dissolved, how long is it since it last met?

2.—Is the Government aware that the prices of fish and firewood have been recently considerably increased by competitors? Will the Government cause enquiries to be made into the same, with a view to having same reduced?

The COLONIAL SECRETARY replied:—
1.—The Committee, referred to was appointed under the Order-in-Council of 1896 as a war measure. It has long ago ceased to perform the functions for which it was appointed, though it has not been formally dissolved.
2.—The Government has received no complaints with regard to the increase in prices referred to, and is not disposed to interfere with retail trade in the Colony except in very exceptional circumstances.

RENT RESTRICTIONS BILL.

FIRST READING.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL moved the first reading of a Bill intituled an Ordinance to amend the law relating to the recovery of possession in certain cases and to restrict the rents of certain domestic tenements.

He said: I am sorry that the notice given of this Bill has been so short. In spite of strenuous efforts on the part of the printers, the Bill in its complete form with the "Object and Reasons," has only just been completed and placed in the hands of honourable members within the last few minutes. The urgency of the occasion is the explanation of the short notice, and, I think, its justification. As the "Object and Reasons" attached to the Bill are unusually full and as they have only just been placed in the hands of honourable members, unless the Council is prepared to take them as read, I propose, with your permission to read them and say very little else in introducing the Bill.

The Council signified its wish that the Attorney-General should read the "Object and Reasons," which he did as follows, making a few interpolations which are printed in parenthesis:—

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1.—This bill is the outcome of the appointment by H.E. the Governor of a committee of the Legislative Council to consider and advise what steps should be taken to protect the tenants of domestic tenements from unreasonable increases in rental and from arbitrary termination of their tenancies. The committee was appointed on the 23rd June.

2.—In appointing the committee H.E. the Governor suggested that a possible way of dealing with unreasonable increases in rental would be to add to the rents payable in 1914 and 1915 such a percentage as would compensate for the fall in value of money during the last six or seven years, and to provide that no rent higher than the maximum rent so ascertained should be recoverable after the 30th June of this year, unless such higher rent should have been authorised by some body appointed for this purpose.

3.—The committee, in the short time at their disposal, have been unable to formulate any scheme to carry out this suggestion. The question of the percentage to be added in order to compensate for the fall in the value of money is a difficult one. It is complicated by the fact that in all probability the proper percentage would vary according to the locality in which the house was situated and it might be necessary to divide the Colony into a considerable number of districts in which varying percentages might be added. The boundaries of these districts might be difficult to ascertain and to define. For instance, it is possible that a district may have been in an early stage of development in 1914, and that the owners of houses in that district were prepared to let their property at low rentals in order to attract tenants to the locality, hoping to recover their losses later when the extension of the town, or the increased popularity of the district, should have attracted a large population. (Certain instances of that were brought to the Committee). In a case like this it would seem hardly fair to allow only the same percentage of increase as would be allowed in an old established district. The difficulty does not end here, because it is possible that some recent houses in the same locality may have been let from the beginning at a rental perfectly fair to the owners, and it would be unreasonable to allow such owners the same rate of increase as would be allowed to owners who had at the beginning let their houses at a sacrifice. It may also be pointed out that no assistance in dealing with the proposed return to the basis of the rents payable six or seven years ago, with the addition of a certain percentage, can be obtained from legislation on this subject in the United Kingdom or in the Straits Settlements, as in both these cases the statutes went back for a much shorter period. The original Act in the United Kingdom, which became law on the 23rd December, 1915, went back to the rents in force on the 3rd August, 1914, and the first Ordinance on the subject in the Straits Settlements (which came into force on September 30th, 1917), went back only about a year and nine months.

4.—These difficulties are referred to, not for the purpose of showing that the above suggestion is impracticable, but to explain why it has not been possible to adopt it in the present Bill which has been drafted at such short notice. The committee will proceed to consider the suggestion, and they will be glad to receive through the Chairman (the Attorney-General) any practical legislative proposals as to how this suggestion can be carried out. The importance of passing some legislation immediately is in order to prevent existing tenants from being turned out at the end of the current half year. (That sentence was written at a time when it was thought that the Bill would be passed through all its stages at this meeting of the Council).

5.—The main object of the present bill, therefore, is to ensure that tenants now in occupation shall not be dispossessed for the present, so long as they comply with the terms of the tenancies and which they hold. This policy obviously involves taking away from the landlords the right to give their tenants notice to quit.

6.—It also seems desirable to provide expressly against increases of rent during the currency of the Ordinance. In view of the fact that in many cases rents appear to have been raised excessively since the end of last year, in some cases possibly on account of the anticipated raising of the rates, it seems advisable to go back to the 31st December, 1920, for the purpose of ascertaining what is termed in the Ordinance the standard rent. Speaking broadly, if the bill becomes law, the tenant now in actual occupation will be obliged to pay any rent higher than that which was payable in respect of his tenement on the 31st December, 1920. Provision is made in clause 2 (f) for the cases of domestic tenements which were not let on 31st December, 1920. (On that I would like to say that revision of rents involved is not a very revolutionary one, and, speaking generally, I think it might be said that rents were low at the end of last year).

7.—The bill applies only to private domestic tenements, and it does not apply to offices, godowns, hotels or boarding houses. It also does not apply to furnished houses. It does apply to every bed space, cubicle, room, portion of a floor, floor, or building, which is the subject of a separate letting, and which is used for human habitation. It applies to a shop if the master or his employees live on the premises. It does not apply to the New Territories, except New Kowloon. It does not apply to an entirely new building which gets its occupation certificate after the commencement of the Ordinance, and any such building will be completely free from the restrictions of the Ordinance. This provision has been made because it is desirable not to discourage the erection of new domestic buildings. The clauses in the bill on which this paragraph is founded are clauses 2 (b) and 9.

8.—It is hoped that one subsidiary effect of the Ordinance will be to encourage the erection of new domestic buildings. In the first place, such new buildings will be entirely free from the restrictions of the Ordinance, and the owners will be entitled to charge whatever rents they can obtain. In the second place, as tenants cannot be turned out so long as they pay the standard rent, well-to-do immigrants who wish to acquire a residence in Hongkong will have to build for themselves.

9.—Tenants now in occupation will practically have their tenancies extended, on the old tenancy terms, so long as they pay the standard rent, and if they are turned out it will be due either to their own fault or to their failure or inability to pay the standard rent. There is one exception to this statement, i.e., when the landlord requires the premises for his own occupation (see clause 4 (c)), but even in that case the tenant will not be turned out unless the court is satisfied that alternative accommodation, reasonably equivalent as regards rent and suitability in all respects, is available. If a tenant does leave, or is ejected, his new tenant will be liable for any rent higher than the standard rent, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary.

10.—It is obvious that the rights of intermediate lessees, e.g., farmers, may be affected by the operation of the Ordinance. The lessee who collects the rents from the tenants in actual occupation will in future be restricted to the collection of the respective standard rents of his property, while he will still be bound to pay to his lessor the lump sum rent which he agreed to pay when he was unrestricted as to the rents which he could collect from his tenants. Clause 5 gives to such an intermediate lessee the right to apply to the court for the revision of the rent payable by him under his lease, and the court is given an uncontrolled discretion to make any order which the court may consider just. If there is another intermediate lessee above the lessee just referred to, the revision of the latter's rent will injuriously affect the former, who is accordingly also enabled to apply to the court to revise the rent payable by him to his lessor. The intention of this is that any loss caused by the reduction of the rents payable by the actual tenants shall be shared fairly by the various lessors. The Court in question will be the Summary Court, and there will be an appeal by special leave to the Full Court.

11.—Clause 6 provides that any question arising under the Ordinance is to be decided by the Summary Court in the first instance, and that an appeal will lie as of right to the full court of two judges, whose decision shall be final. (The giving of jurisdiction to the Summary Court is in order to secure quicker and simpler procedure and the lower scale of costs which prevails in that Court). It will be noticed that there is an appeal as of right in all cases, except in the one case of revision of rents payable under intermediate leases. An appeal as of right is not given in the latter case because no question of law would ordinarily be involved, and the decision is intended as a sort of arbitration between the parties, so as to arrive in a more or less rough and ready way at a fair apportionment of the loss caused by the Ordinance.

12.—Returns under the Rating Ordinance, and assessments, are made admissible as evidence of the rent of premises. Power is also given to the court to order the production of any books of account or documents whatsoever, if it appears to the court that such books of account or documents may be relevant to any matter arising under the Ordinance.

13.—The Ordinance is to continue in force until the 30th June, 1922, and power is given to the Legislative Council by resolution to extend this duration for such term, not exceeding one year at any one time, as may be specified in the resolution.

14.—When the Ordinance eventually does come to an end, any tenant then in occupation shall be deemed to be holding over on the same tenancy terms as those on which he was holding immediately before the termination of the Ordinance, unless he has received from his landlord such notice to quit, terminating with the termination of the Ordinance, as would have been a due notice to quit under the terms of his original tenancy. For example, a monthly tenant will be entitled to remain on in his house or other tenement for at least one month after the ultimate termination of the Ordinance, unless his landlord shall have given him one month's notice expiring with the Ordinance; in other words, a landlord cannot turn a monthly tenant out, either at or after the ultimate expiration of the Ordinance, except by giving the tenant a month's notice. Similar remarks apply to other tenancies, such as yearly or weekly tenancies. Any tenant so holding over after the termination of the Ordinance holds over at the standard rent.

15.—(This, sir, is an important clause). Clause 4 (4) has a retrospective operation, and for that reason the sub-clause deserves special attention. It provides, in effect, that if any ejectment order shall have been made before the passing of the Ordinance, but shall not have been executed, the court may rescind or vary the order, if it is one which would not have been made if the Ordinance had been in force. In other words, a tenant who has received notice to quit on the 30th June, but who, being quite unable to find other accommodation, remains on in his house after the 30th June, and who has an order for ejectment made against him before the passing of the Ordinance, will, if this sub-clause become law before he has been actually turned out, be able to apply to the court to rescind or vary the ejectment order.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL added: We can hardly flatter ourselves, sir, that this Bill is perfect, but I think any faults it contains can best be discovered in the actual practical application of the Ordinance after it is passed, and, if necessary, supplementary legislation can be enacted.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY seconded, and the Bill was read a first time.

AMENDMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH AND BUILDING ORDINANCE.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL: I move that the second reading of the Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend further the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance, 1903, be postponed to the next meeting of this Council.

This was agreed to.

CROWN LANDS RESUMPTION.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL: I move that the second reading of the Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend the Crown Lands Resumption Ordinance, 1900, be also postponed to the next meeting of this Council.

This was agreed to.

CHILD SLAVERY.

This subject as it affects the Colony of Hongkong continues to be pressed upon the attention of the Imperial Government and the British public by those who have taken up the subject at Home, and it is evident from the many extracts we have quoted recently from the Home papers that no inconsiderable amount of interest has been aroused in the question.

We have heard it objected that the picture given by some of the advocates of reform in England has been overdrawn and is misleading; but it is any more misleading than many of the answers given in the House of Commons by the spokesmen of the Colonial Office, who have attempted to convey the impression that no such problem as that alleged exists in Hongkong! Sooner or later the Colonial Government will be forced to take some effective measures in the matter. They may soon get a lead from the Federated Malay States, for in one of the latest Straits papers we read that an enactment to amend the Penal Code and Evidence Enactments, 1905 and 1909, is to be considered by the Federal Council.

It is pointed out that section 370 of the Straits Settlements Penal Code has reference only to the purchase and sale of slaves; and the proposed enactment substitutes a provision to make illegal the purchase or sale of a human being for any purpose at all, and is intended to afford a further safeguard to children in addition to the protection afforded by the proposed Children Enactment. The purchase and sale of a human being is illegal under the Common Law of England; what is needed is the enforcement of the law in territories under the Crown. In the matter of affording better protection, the Government of Hongkong has not yet advanced so far as even to adopt the mild suggestion made by Lord MILNER, while Secretary of State for the Colonies, that it should aim at a gradual reform of the mui tai system, where necessary, in co-operation with enlightened and humane Chinese, and that the Governor should persuade prominent Chinese to form a Society for the protection and improvement of these girl domestics. We have recently revived in the Colony the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and we are thus encouraged to hope that before long we may see practical effect given to Lord Milner's suggestion for a Society in this Colony for the Protection of Cruelty to Children. If such a Society is recognised to be needed at Home, how much more is it necessary in a Colony where there exist some hundreds, or thousands, of children bought and sold for domestic service! We have had the advantage of seeing in recent Home papers a report on the operations of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and a few figures from that Report may suggest to many readers the room which exists in this Colony for a similar Society. The EARL OF PEMBROKE AND MONTGOMERY, who presided at the annual meeting, said the object of the society was to ensure tolerable conditions of life for every child, and during the past year this object had been achieved in 101,085 cases—a figure 2,461 above that of the previous year, but 41,940 below the pre-war year of 1913-14. It was well to remember, his lordship added, that probably more than 30 per cent. of the cases with which the society had to deal were the result of ignorance, and not the outcome of viciousness or cruelty. There nevertheless did exist a type of man and woman who delighted in cruelty. This type exists among the Chinese as among other races, and the mui tai system offers exceptional opportunities for its development. The Home Society's work in connection with canal-bait children, the President said, was a valuable contribution to child welfare. Here in Hongkong we should like to see a Society which will make a valuable contribution to child welfare, especially among the mui tai class, and in addition, we trust the Government may be able to gather some useful hints on legislation or regulation from what is being contemplated in the Federated Malay States.

H.E. the Governor and Lady Stubbs will take up their residence at Mountain Lodge on July 1st.

According to the Shanghai Journal of Commerce a native goods exhibition will be held in Foochow during August and will continue for one month. It is proposed to have a permanent museum following the exhibition.

While Mrs. J. A. Shaw, of Tregunter Mansions, May Road, and a lady friend were bathing at Repulse Bay, on Wednesday afternoon, someone entered their bathed and stole jewellery and other property to the value of $336.

John Gordon, ship's carpenter on the Empress of Japan, was walking in Praya East, about 9.45 p.m., on Wednesday. Near the Seamen's Institute, a Chinese snatched from his coat pocket a gold Albert chain valued at $45. Chua was given, but the thief ran into a side lane and disappeared out of sight.

A telegram to the Shanghai Journal of Commerce reports that Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs, has given an assurance to the Diplomatic Body that China bears full responsibility for the losses sustained by foreign merchants during the mutinies in Hupeh and will pay full indemnity to the sufferers.

The str. Hasthor was successfully launched, on June 22nd, at the shipyards of the New Engineering and Shipbuilding Works, Ltd., Shanghai. She was the eighth steamer built by the company during the past three years, for the same owners, Messrs. Brussaard, Kiosterud & Co. of Norway. The deadweight carrying capacity of the vessels is 2,000 tons.

The Russian Light Opera and Operetta Co. announces their farewell performance to-night, when "The Geisha" will be presented with a pot pourri programme. Booking plans for this performance are open at the Hongkong Hotel, where tickets may be obtained, to-day, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Judging by the popularity of the company, there should be a crowded house to-night at the Theatre Royal.

The Pacific Mail liner Venezuela has inaugurated a passenger service with sailings every three weeks between San Francisco and Baltimore, through the Panama Canal. The Venezuela was formerly on the company's Oriental run and was very popular with passengers to and from the Far East. She was the first vessel to be taken off the Oriental run and placed on the new service, and is being followed by her sisterships, the Columbia and Zealandor.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

ASPECT OF SINO-GERMAN PEACE TREATY.

PARIS, June 24th (delayed).

According to the Treaty of Versailles, Germany was obliged to take over the rights and interests of German subjects in Russia, China, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey, and transfer the rights and interests to the Reparations Committee.

The separate peace treaty concluded between Germany and China stipulates that Germany will take over from China 50 per cent. of the unliquidated German property in China, the remainder being returned to German owners. Moreover, 12,000,000 taels are being already liquidated. This considerably infringes on the rights of the Reparations Committee, which, of course, will be pointed out to Germany. The Committee's bankers are examining the methods of transfer of liabilities under the new Treaty.

JAPAN'S CROWN PRINCE IN FRANCE.

PARIS, June 24th (delayed).

The Alsatian population gave a great reception to the Japanese Crown Prince who, upon being welcomed at Strasbourg by the Governor-General and Municipal Council, stated that the restoration of Alsace Lorraine to France was the consecration of right and justice. The Prince paid a lengthy visit to the famous University where a number of Japanese are among the students.

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

LONDON, June 30th.

It is stated on good authority that, probably, the question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty will be postponed for several months, during which period the existing treaty will automatically continue, in order to enable Mr. Hughes and Mr. Meighen to return home and consult their colleagues, and if necessary, obtain a referendum vote of their own people upholding or rejecting the proposals which were to be settled by the Imperial Conference.

In connection with the above, Reuter learns from an authoritative source that the Anglo-Japanese discussions are progressing with a view to leaving sufficient time adequately to discuss the question of the renewal of the Alliance, but so far no decision has been taken.

Views of Dominion's Premiers.

LONDON, June 30th.

The Manchester Guardian says that the Imperial Conference on June 25th continued the discussion of the question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

Mr. Meighen vigorously opposed the renewal and contended that a renewal would impede the possibilities of an agreement on the limitation of armaments, which depended on a comprehensive conference on the Pacific problems.

Mr. Hughes strongly supported the renewal, and declared that the Alliance was the best and the cheapest means of protecting Australia, as it provided a strong check upon Japan.

General Smuts expressed his conviction that the real foundation of British international policy must be close co-operation with the United States. Any step which might hinder a better Anglo-American understanding must be most carefully examined and understood.

General Smuts expressed the opinion that the results expected from the Alliance could be secured equally well from a conference of the Powers interested in the Pacific.

Mr. Massey appears to have favoured both the renewal of the Alliance and the Pacific Conference.

MINERS' VOTE.

MAJORITY IN FAVOUR OF SETTLEMENT.

LONDON, June 30th.
Opinion at the miners' meetings in most colliery districts favoured resumption. Derbyshire, Scotland, Yorkshire, Leicestershire and Nottinghamshire all recommended acceptance of the settlement, but South Wales resolved to condemn the Executive for ignoring the ballot and for believing that they have no option, and the Federation is to be preserved, but to accept the terms. Wigan was one of the most notable exceptions. Six thousand miners unanimously resolved to reject the settlement.

At Bannock Chase 3,000 have already resumed, and a big influx is expected to-day.

RUSSIAN MOBILISATION.

MYSTERIOUS ORDER BY NORTHERN SOVIETS.

LONDON, June 30th.
A Helsinki telegram reports that an order for the mobilisation of all classes up to 45 years of age has been issued by all Northern Russian Governments, probably throughout Russia. The reason for this order is unknown, but it is thought it is connected with serious risings in Siberia.

GREEKS EVACUATE TOWN.

LONDON, June 29th.
In the House of Commons, at question-time, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that he had received information that the Greeks had evacuated the town of Ismidt on the evening of June 17th, and that the town was alive and there was a great panic in the district. Numbers of Armenians and neutral Turks were fleeing to Constantinople. There appeared to be a considerable danger of massacres as a result of general confusion, but the Allied High Commissioners were taking all possible steps to prevent outrages.

OUTSPOKEN JAPANESE STATEMENT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 29th.
Mr. Ushida, the Japanese High Commissioner, interviewed, stated that Japan was deeply interested in the question of the Straits, which must not be allowed to fall under the domination of a single nation. It is also reported that he declared that "the Turks wish to regain by force of arms the territories lost in the war. That is impossible."

FRANCE'S ATTITUDE.

PARIS, June 29th.
The Chamberlain's Foreign Affairs Committee has passed a resolution in favour of the re-establishment of peace in the Near East, and in view of the Greek refusal of the Allies' offer of mediation, France is unable to afford the Greek Government any financial or military aid whatsoever.

BRITISH INDUSTRY.

SIGNS OF A REVIVAL.

LONDON, June 29th.
Presiding at a dinner given by the Government to the Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, Sir Robert Horne declared that he saw at least the flickerings of a new order for British industries. He hoped for a revival by the autumn and pointed out that the nations of the world were interdependent. The future prosperity of the world depended on the solution of the credits question. A start had been made in connection with that, but it was more necessary that a new plan should be devised, giving wider scope.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

VISCOUNT GREY'S VIEWS ON CHANGED OUTLOOK.

LONDON, June 29th.
Viscount Grey presided at a dinner given by the League of Nations' Union in honour of the Dominions' Premiers. There was a large gathering of notables, including representatives of all nations adhering to the League.

Viscount Grey, in proposing the League, declared that the British Empire to-day represented the disappearance of the old idea of central authority and subordination, and the new idea of voluntary co-operation, based on confidence and equal authority. Similarly, the League represented the disappearance of something old and the embodiment of a new spirit. Referring to disarmament, Viscount Grey urged for negotiations with the United States, not with a view to making a bargain but for the purpose of doing something to diminish world competition.

General Smuts, responding, believed that the idea at the base of the League would eventually work the greatest revolution the world had ever seen. The Indian delegate, the Maharaja of Cutch, declared that India appreciated her new duties and responsibilities to the British Empire. India wished nothing better than success for the greater League.

THE PRODUCTION OF TEA.

AN INTERESTING REVIEW.

In the latest number of the Bulletin of the Imperial Institute there is a long and very interesting article by Mr. A. S. Judge, lately Chief Collector of Customs in Burma, on the subject of "The Production of Tea in the Empire and its Relation to the Tea Trade of the World." From this article we extract the following paragraphs of general interest:—

THE ORIGIN OF TEA.

The tea-plant, an evergreen belonging to the genus Camellia, is indigenous in the wild hilly country which separates India and Burma from China, and also in parts of Central and Western China. It is not known from what source the Chinese first obtained the plant for cultivation, as the variety now grown in China differs greatly from the indigenous plant discovered in recent times. The cultivated China plant has a small leaf and grows naturally as a bushy shrub, whereas the Assam variety has a very large leaf, and, if allowed to grow naturally, develops into a tree; in the forests of Manipur large tea-trees have been found, some growing up to a height of one hundred feet.

From time immemorial the people of the Shan States and other localities have cultivated the tea-plant and pickled and eaten the leaves; the Chinese were, however, the first to discover the virtues of tea as a beverage. In the early years of the Christian era the Chinese were manufacturing and drinking tea, and in the eighth century the industry was of sufficient importance to make it liable to imperial taxation. The Japanese obtained tea-seed from China about the tenth century, and early acquired the tea habit. For many centuries tea-drinking was confined to China and Japan.

THE SPREAD OF TEA-DRINKING.

The United Kingdom.—The Dutch first introduced tea into Europe, but no regular trade was established until the East India Company brought samples to London late in the seventeenth century. Coffee and cocoa were recognised beverages when tea was first introduced and sold to the public in the London coffee and tea houses. It was at first brewed in a cask and drawn off like beer, a tax of 1s. 6d. being levied on each gallon of liquid tea. For a long period tea was an expensive luxury. In 1819 the consumption in the United Kingdom was 21,000,000 lb., or an average of 1 lb. per head. In 1833 the monopoly of the trade in tea, which the East India Company had held for 180 years, came to an end, and about the same time the cultivation of tea in India was started. As the price went down consumption advanced, but between 1836 and 1852 the high rate of duty, viz. 2s. 2½d. per lb., checked progress. In 1855 the duty was reduced to 6d. per lb., which had a stimulating effect on the trade; in 1867 the average consumption was about 3 lb. per head, and the total quantity consumed. Twenty years later the consumption was twice as large, and more than half the supplies came from India and Ceylon. Many causes had contributed to the increase in consumption: the competition of British-grown teas had forced down prices, freights were lower owing to the opening of the Suez Canal, and there was a wave of prosperity in the United Kingdom, and all classes could afford to buy tea. It was during this period that tea was universally used as a breakfast beverage. Between 1880 and 1900 the duty was only 4d. per lb., the distributing trade was thoroughly organised and tea was supplied in packets to suit all tastes. Afternoon tea became a national institution, and tea-shops to supply this want were multiplied. When the people had acquired the tea habit they were not satisfied with the common China teas, and by 1900 British grown teas had practically secured the home market. Since 1900 the consumption in this country has steadily advanced; during the war economy had to be exercised, but for the last two years the rate of consumption has been about 9 lb. per capita, which represents a daily allowance of four cups of tea for each individual.

The Dominions and India.—The Australians and New Zealanders are as great tea-drinkers, as the people of the Mother-country, and they also have discarded China tea for the more refreshing and stimulating tea produced in India and Ceylon.

In Canada the average consumption of tea is about 5 lb. per head; a certain amount of China tea is still being imported, as well as green tea from Japan. The Dutch in South Africa are not tea-drinkers, but the British in the Union consume a considerable quantity, a part of which is supplied by tea plantations of Natal.

In India, owing to the excellent work done by the Tea Cess Committee, tea-drinking has been popularised in many localities, and in 1919 the consumption was estimated at 50,000,000 lb. As the material prosperity of the people is rapidly improving, this market should in future absorb much larger quantities of lower grade teas.

The United States of America.—In the United States the average annual consumption per head is only 1 lb. compared with 9 or 10 lb. of coffee. Green teas obtained mainly from China and Japan are largely used, although in recent years Ceylon, Indian and Java teas have been making headway. It is strange that the Americans should not have acquired the tea habit, as so many of them are descendants of emigrants from these islands, and tea was taken to America by the early colonists. The Americans know little about the virtues of tea; coffee is very largely consumed, but tea has never been placed properly in competition with it. The efforts which have been made by the Indian Tea Cess Committee during the last 25 years to popularise Indian tea in America do not appear to have met with any success.

The average per capita consumption of tea in the States at the outbreak of the war was less than it had been twenty years earlier. One of the American trade journals interested in tea recently pointed out that the tea used in most of the best hotels and dining-car systems of America was of such low grade and inferior quality, and was so imperfectly brewed that it was impossible to make tea-drinkers of the American public.

The Tea Associations of the United States have started a publicity campaign throughout the country with the object of increasing the consumption of tea; it is not intended to push the sale of any special kind of tea, but rather to educate the people to drink tea of good quality. The present time appears to be most opportune for such a movement, as Prohibition is now in force, and thousands of men who served during the war acquired the tea habit. This movement appears to be deserving of support from the tea-growers of India and Ceylon.

Russia.—Russia first obtained tea from China in the seventeenth century, and for many years, until the opening of the Siberian railway, there was a regular caravan trade in this commodity between the two countries. In recent years the Chinese supplies have come either by rail or by sea to Batoum and thence from India and Ceylon by steamer principally to Odessa and Vladivostok. Although the Russian market in normal times absorbs a considerable quantity of tea, the average annual consumption per capita has been about 1 lb. only. This is due to the fact that the bulk of the people are poor, and communications, except on the lines of railway, are bad. The poorer classes drink their tea weak, the tea-pot is filled with water several times, until all the essence is drawn from the leaves. While the wealthy classes were drinking the finest teas produced in China or India, a large proportion of the imports was in the form of bricks, composed of poor China teas with an admixture of dust and fannings from the British and Dutch plantations. The tea habit is probably most general in the Central Asiatic Provinces of Russia, where green teas are principally used. In Russia itself and in Siberia there was a growing demand for the sound black teas produced in India and Ceylon; this trade had reached considerable dimensions at the time of the outbreak of the war, and 1915 and 1916, after the introduction of temperance legislation, the imports were the highest on record. The Russian market has temporarily been lost, but British trade should be able to recover the lost ground when conditions are more favourable.

The Continent of Europe.—Apart from Russia, comparatively little tea is drunk on the Continent, except in Holland, where, owing to her connection with Java, tea has been imported and used for a long time. Before the war Germany was slowly acquiring the tea habit, and was importing annually about 10,000,000 lb. of tea. Tea-drinking was also on the increase in Belgium and Denmark, and in many of the large towns and pleasure resorts on the Continent the afternoon tea custom, introduced by British visitors, was becoming a popular institution.

South America.—In Argentina and Chile considerable quantities of tea are drunk, and it should be possible to develop these markets still further. In South America generally Yerba Maté, or Paraguayan tea, is the most popular beverage. The Yerba Maté, Ilex paraguensis, is indigenous to Paraguay, the southern provinces of Brazil and parts of Argentina. The consumption of this tea has so greatly increased that large plantations have been established in the countries mentioned above. In 1916 Brazil exported 163,000,000 lb. Yerba Maté, valued at 3.4d. per lb.; Argentina took 100,000,000 lb., and the balance went mainly to other countries, in South America. The harvesting of the crop is very simple, all the leaves and small twigs on a tree are pruned, and before fermentation can set in, are dried over a fire in the same manner as tea-leaves are dried; the leaves are then ground into powder in a mill. Maté is prepared with boiling water like ordinary tea; the infusion has a bitter flavour, and is not so pleasant to the taste as tea. It is said to be a stimulating drink, but contains less caffeine than tea.

The Brazilian growers of maté are searching for new markets for their product in North America, and on the Continent of Europe. This movement will have to be watched by those interested in tea.

Other Countries.—In Persia, Asia Minor, Arabia, Afghanistan, Morocco and North Africa generally the tea habit is spreading, green teas being most in demand.

THE TEA-PRODUCING COUNTRIES.

The following countries supply the world with tea: China, Japan, Formosa, French Indo-China, India, Ceylon, Java, and Sumatra in Asia, and Natal and Nyassaland in Africa. In the Caucasus, near Batoum, a small tea industry is in existence; it was started some thirty or forty years ago, but has made little progress. In the United States of America exhaustive experiments were made by the Agricultural Department; it was proved, however, that without plentiful and cheap labour the tea industry could not be made a paying proposition. The supply of labour is the most important factor in the tea industry.

CANTON GOVERNMENT AND THE YANGTZE VALLEY.

TALK OF A PROJECTED MILITARY ENTERPRISE.

The Asiatic News Agency Changai correspondent writes:—

In connection with the mutinies at Wuchang and Ichang, there is an important development between Hupeh and Hunan. It is reported among military officers that General Chao Heng-ti, commander-in-chief of the Hunan army, has established friendly connections with General Li Lieh-chun, who, with a Yunnan and Kweichow armed force, has been lingering along the Hunan-Kweichow borders since last August, with a view to their joint attack on Hupeh in the hope of seizing the central Yangtze region. The agreement which has just been signed between Chao and Li provides for the equal division of Hupeh after its capture, and then the combined forces will attack and capture Kiangsi. As Li Lieh-chun is a native of Kiangsi where he has numerous followers and supporters, there is no doubt that he contemplates his "reinstatement" in the Yunnan-Nanchang in the future. Military movements are going on secretly to this end in Hunan at the moment. The South Western leaders consider the present time affords a suitable opportunity for them to extend their powers and influence into the Yangtze Valley through Hupeh because, according to the "confidential" reports of their agents at Wuchang and Hankow, the mutineers at Wuchang were from among General Wang Chan-yuan's trusted soldiers, and not fresh recruits, and that owing to the inhuman massacre of hundreds of the looters at Siakian railway station General Wang is not in a position to command confidence among his own forces. The alleged plots of the South Western leaders in Hunan are probably already known to the Northern leaders, because to-day's reports from the North indicate that Marshal Tso Kuan is making Chihli and Honan troops on the Hupeh-Honan borders as far as Wuchang for meeting emergencies in the Central Yangtze region and that the famous General Wu Peifu is slowly moving from Loyang to the Wu-Hai cities. All sorts of political rumours are in circulation and wealthy people are shifting their families and properties to the foreign concessions of both Shanghai and Hankow for safety. Martial law has been declared by General Chao who has also prohibited the export of Hunan rice to Hupeh and Kiangsi.

THE DEUTSCHE-ASIATISCHE BANK.

The Asiatic News Agency's Peking correspondent says:—During the course of the last few weeks, irresponsible and inaccurate reports have been published in certain vernacular newspapers about the reconstruction of the Deutsch-Asiatische Bank. The "Asiatic News Agency" learns that the persons presently acting for this Bank in North China are:—Mr. Cordes of Peking, whose chief duty is to negotiate with the Chinese Government authorities; and Mr. Figge, the former Manager of the Shanghai Office, who is associated with Mr. Cordes to consider financial questions. Mr. Eggeling, a Peking Agent, transacts current business for account of the Deutsch-Asiatische Bank, Berlin and Hamburg, and Mr. Koch, acting in a similar capacity at Tientsin. The German financiers have not the slightest desire nor the intention to establish a Sino-German Banking concern at the present juncture. The Deutsch-Asiatische Bank was never a semi-official concern. It is a joint stock company, the shares of which are owned internationally, exactly as is the case with the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, and the other foreign banking institutions operating in the Far East and elsewhere. It is expected that the Chinese Government will now return to the Bank the Bank's books, papers, etc., as well as the funds collected by the Government authorities for account of the Bank during its suspension, because its properties are owned internationally, and when the Chinese Government has returned all the bank's confiscated property to the Bank, the Bank will be able to effect a settlement with all its creditors.

question in regard to the cultivation of tea, more than twice the number of coolies being required to work a tea estate as would be necessary to work the same acreage under coffee or rubber. A large proportion of the labour on a tea estate should also consist of women and children for leaf-plucking; if men are employed in this work the cost of production is greatly enhanced. The labour question is a cause of anxiety to planters in all parts of India, Ceylon and the Dutch Indies, and further extensions of tea in any of these localities will only be made after mature consideration. The shortage of labour for leaf-plucking, especially in tropical climates where growth is rapid and luxuriant, is a very serious matter. If the leaf is not taken off when ready, it will be plucked the shoots run away, especially in the centre of the bush, and not only is the plucking surface of the bush reduced, but when a bush has put on a certain amount of foliage it will not continue to "flush" so freely and the yield of leaf falls off. At the present time the aim of the planter is to obtain the best results from the area already planted; this can be effected by improved methods of cultivation and pruning, and by gradually replacing plants of inferior quality by those which will give the highest yield of tea.

CURE FOR BAD HUSBANDS.

COURSE OF HOME DRUGGERY.

New York, May 23rd.

A new method of disciplining husbands who abuse their wives has been evolved out of the experience of marital infidelity by the Long Island City stipendiary, Mr. Justice Kochendorfer.

He announced last week that too many cases of this description were coming before him, and added that since he was of the opinion that nine-tenths of them had their origin in the faults of the husbands, he proposed to consider ways and means of relieving the burden of the wives. This morning the magistrate informs all obstreperous husbands that in future they will either go to gaol or else accept this alternative. They must agree (1) to prepare breakfast every morning; (2) to wash the dishes in the evening; (3) to take care of the children for one hour a day; (4) to have one evening out a week; (5) to take the family out every Sunday, to church in the morning and for a walk in the afternoon; (6) to buy sweets and fruit for their wives and children at least once a week; (7) to allow their wives to handle the family finances; (8) to start a savings bank account; (9) to refrain from asking their wives to wait on them, but wait on their wives instead; (10) to respect once a day the promise made to their wives on marriage—namely, to love, honour, and cherish them.

"I propose to make bad husbands punish themselves," added Mr. Justice Kochendorfer. "Probation officers will check up their performances every day, and after two or three weeks the husbands will realize the monotony and drudgery of most women's lives.—Times.

WHO WRITES THE WORST BOOKS?

MORE TALK OF SLOPS AND SENTIMENT.

Whoever is responsible for the worst novels, and the best sellers, it is clear from the volume of letters which have reached the Daily News (says that paper), that all the women believe it is the fault of the men, while the men say "of course, it's the women."

The publishers, more men, are divided. Mr. R. Brimley Johnson writes to say the general standard is far higher among women than men. "They have not produced a Wells or a Conrad," he says, "but of the younger groups Miss Clemence Dane's art is much greater than Cannon's, Walpole's, or Beresford's, and more sincere than Compton Mackenzie's." Miss Sinclair, Miss Macaulay, Miss Sidgwick, and Miss Kay-Smith have a finer and more assured grip of character and greater dramatic force. Miss Richardson has achieved a revolution in aim and method.

GIRLISH TWADDLE
"Most of the men are still floundering in the false realism which reached its highest expression in Gissing, and revealed all its inherent weakness, artificiality, and sex obsession in the so-called 'problem' novel or play."

A Male Would-be Reader suggests that men do not read novels because they're not worth it. "When Anthony Hope, Marion Crawford, Stanley Weyman, Gilbert Parker, Seton Merriman, and Conan Doyle wrote novels men read them eagerly. To-day I scan the book-stalls, and find only girlish twaddle about Egyptian hotels and love-sick Arabs, or high brow stuff which gives one a headache to attempt to understand."

A Birmingham reader suggests that a woman correspondent in challenging men to produce something better "misses the point with a triumphant inevitability thoroughly characteristic of the feminine mind," and goes on to state that "women read far more novels than men, and prefer third-rate to first-rate fiction. Slops and sentiment," he says, "will continue to secure the widest public, especially among the women and girls." Mr. Elliot O'Donnell writes: "How ridiculous is Miss Underwood's remark, 'If men want to improve the bookstalls, why don't they write better books themselves?' They do. Miss Underwood may possibly have heard of Kipling, Barrie, Wells, Thomas Hardy, Conrad, Maurice Hewlett, and Henry James."

WHO ARE THEY?
Austin H. Johnson, of the Union Society, Cambridge, declares that there are more than 30 women novelists who need fear no comparison with the writers of any age or either sex. And "J.B." London asked:
"Can Miss Underwood or anyone else give a list of 30 first-class women writers of to-day?"

MEN AND BAD BOOKS.

The "last word," of course, is with the lady who writes:—

When will the superior man cease to advise woman as to what she should read, smoke, eat, wear, and see?

If we like third-rate books, and write them because we like them, it is surely no business of anyone but ourselves.

The fact is that men are sore because women, coming late, have beaten them off the field of fiction.

It is merely an example of a number of things women can and will do better than men. Man turns round and says that since the women came there are only bad books on the stalls. How man-like!

GOVERNMENT FINANCE.SIR GODFREY COLLINS'S CRITICISM.

Lord Robert Cecil, M.P., opened a public conference at Essex Hall, Strand, on the Government policy as revealed in the Budget, and among the speakers was Sir Godfrey Collins, M.P., who has just resigned his position as Charity Commissioner. The conference was under the auspices of the League to Enforce Public Economy.

Sir Godfrey Collins, M.P., said all branches of policy should be subordinate to finance, and the restoration of public credit, but the Budget proved that the Government had grasped that necessity. Now, two and a half years after the Armistice, taxation remained as was pitched. The burden of armaments amounted to £193,000,000, and absorbed 4s. in every £ of direct taxation, and nearly 3d. in every 1s. by way of indirect taxation. With the Continental menace removed, the necessity of sending an expeditionary force to the Continent disappeared. Why should the nation be saddled with an Army which cost to-day £26,000,000, the £22,000,000 before the war? The Government in Mesopotamia nearly equalled the cost of the Army before the war. The Navy cost £30,000,000; and according to the Government no reduction could be expected, as the policy of laying down monster battleships would involve fresh additional expenditure. Public memories were so short that they were apt to forget the historic surrender of the German Fleet. Why should the four capital ships be built which, according to Admiral Scott, would cost £10,000,000 apiece, without some determined attempt to discuss this matter with our two Allies—the United States and Japan? The new Conversion Loan, offering practically 5½ per cent. at forty years, placed a permanent burden on the taxpayer. It was seldom realised that only a 1 per cent. reduction in the rate of interest of the National Debt would reduce our national expenditure by about £50,000,000, and bring relief to every taxpayer. To secure this result the credit of the Government must be improved.

Lord Robert Cecil said that two subjects of great disappointment in connection with the Budget, to the man in the street, were that there was to be no remission of taxation and no settled, definite plan of economy. Any substantial reduction in our general military expenditure depended more than anything else on the policy we pursued in the Middle East and Mesopotamia. "We are confronted with a fresh attempt to present Europe with an fait accompli on the part of the Poles," added Lord Robert. It was perfectly plain that the present incident, if not wisely dealt with, might add enormously to the economic difficulties of Europe, and might even plunge us into very serious expenditure. "Unless you can transform your whole foreign policy," said Lord Robert, in conclusion, "you will be at the mercy of these wind-suckers. You will be condemned for ever to keep up gigantic forces by land and sea. Your ideas of economy in military matters must be definitely abandoned, and you must return to the old conditions of affairs ten times aggravated by the recent events."

DEAN INGE AND THE MINERS."HELP FROM ENGLAND'S ENEMIES."

Dean Inge was entertained at luncheon on May 4th by members of the National Liberal Club.

Speaking on the subject of the white man and his rivals, he said:—"We have seen lately the new policy of fomenting social disturbances and subsidizing strikes in neighbouring countries, which the country doing it was to injure. The Germans have been amiably trying to stir up social troubles in all the other European countries. I imagine that it is true that the miners are receiving help from the enemies of this country in all parts of the world. There are signs of disintegration, and I think posterity will regard with amusement that state of things which is now going on. They will consider it as almost incredible that we should have regarded it as legitimate and natural for a large body of men to combine together to raise up a war fund by forced contributions and then suddenly to declare war, not against their employers, but against the State."

England, he added, was not moving at all in the direction of an elaborate state of Socialism. Such a state would destroy initiative and produce a kind of slavery. It was not English, and people showed no disposition to welcome it.

With regard to Asiatic rivals, Dean Inge said that our warning time was nearly over. He considered that the population of this country would have to be reduced. If he could see any way of reducing it without causing great suffering, or by such a horrible catastrophe as a successful blockade and a terrible famine, he would welcome it as a change in the right direction. He believed that the people were happier living, not in enormous aggregates, but under conditions more like those which Nature had prescribed, and certainly more in accordance with the bodily and psychological needs of the average human being. He would not be sorry if Asia, instead of Europe, became the workshop of the world and if we in England, as our part as a great world, Power had been successfully played out, were to revert to living in a more quiet manner as we did 150 years ago in the days we looked back to with pride as having produced most of our great men. Our economic future was serious, and if we went on in this manner with this policy of national disintegration, which was not only anti-democratic but anti-social, on the part of a section of the population, we had nothing to expect but economic ruin and universal misery.

It almost seems as if the war has done a great deal to exhaust the reservoir of ideas, to sterilise the best and most useful activities of mankind.—*Mr. Aquith.CRICKET AS EMPIRE BOND.*AUSTRALIANS WELCOMED BY SURREY CLUB.

There was a great gathering of cricketers and cricket lovers, recently, in the Hall of the Skinners' Company, London, where the Australian team were entertained at dinner by the Surrey Cricket Club.

Sir Jeremiah Colman, President of the Club, presided, and among the company present, besides the members of the two teams which had been playing against one another at the Oval earlier in the day, were the Lord Mayor, the Earl of Middleton, Viscount Chelmsford, Lord Harris, the Earl of Dartmouth, Viscount Devonport, Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Lord Southwark, Mr. J. W. Lowther (late Speaker of the House of Commons), Sir Gerald Ryan, Sir Peter McBride (Agent-General for Victoria), and the Hon. D. Mackinnon, President of the Victoria Cricket Association. The President of the Surrey Club, in proposing the loyal toasts, referred with gratification to the fact that the Prince of Wales was the landlord of the Oval, and that it was owing to his concessions that they were able to carry on. (Cheers.) Expressing the hope that he would not be regarded as a bowler who was kept on too long, Sir J. Colman gave a series of toasts, including that of the Australian cricketers. In this connection he emphasised the debt that Australia owed to Surrey and William Cuffin for their cricket training and alluded to the fact that Australia, largely through the bowling of Mr. F. R. Spofforth, who was present at the dinner, gained their first victory in a representative match at the Oval against Surrey.

EXPECTATIONS OF THE VISITORS.
Mr. W. W. Armstrong (captain of the Australian team) in responding, said that though the Australians had won all five test matches on the other side, they did not expect to have such a comfortable task on this side, where they expected to learn a great deal before they returned. The five test games in Australia were the hardest he had ever played and he expected that the experience here would be even harder. His greatest regret was that in the match against Surrey, Jack Hobbs was not playing, as it did not seem like cricket without seeing him at cover. Whether they won or lost, the present visit of the Australians was bound to make the relations between the two parts of the Empire closer. (Hear, hear.)

The Earl of Dartmouth, in proposing the health of the Lord Mayor, recalled an occasion on which he took a seat in the Pavilion at the Oval, and on replying in the negative to an inquiry by the then secretary, Mr. Alecock, whether he was a member, he was promptly requested to clear out. (Laughter.)

The Lord Mayor, in responding, expressed the hope that the present Australian visit would result in closer ties with the Mother Country. (Cheers.)

A STRAIGHTFORWARD, MANLY GAME.
Lord Harris, in proposing Cricket and the Surrey Club, spoke of the self-denial and the absence of anything mean and underhanded demanded by cricket. Apart from want of success in winning the test, he considered that Mr. Douglas was one of the most successful captains of Test cricket. Would that there were greater opportunities for the youth of the country not only to look on, but to take part in it, a straightforward and manly game in which the lessons to be learned were for the good of all who took part in it. (Hear, hear.)

The toasts were acknowledged by the Earl of Middleton, who described cricket as "one of our industries" and by Colonel the Hon. F. S. Jackson (President of the M.C.C.), who said that on the occasion when he desired to make his maiden speech in the House of Commons, he had a message conveyed to him through a cricketer friend from the then Speaker (Mr. Lowther): "Tell Jackson to put his pads on. I'm going to put him in next." He was profoundly thankful that cricket, which did a great deal to strengthen the bonds of Empire, was growing in popularity. With humorous reminiscences he recalled how he made his first century in Test cricket, in a last-wicket partnership at the Oval.

Mr. J. W. Lowther said that, as eleven on the list of speakers, his stay could not be expected to last long. He proposed the health of the President of the Surrey Club, one of a great family of cricketers, who gained his first experience on the village green.

ARCHITECTS' FEES.A COUNCIL "STAGGERED AND STUNNED."

A claim for £13,900 for architect's fees in respect of 400 houses is reported to have "staggered and stunned" the Brandon (Durham) Urban Council.

An official of the Ministry of Health pointed out that the scale of fees to architects was arranged when the housing programme was begun. In fixing the amounts the Royal Institute of British Architects and the Society of Architects were consulted.

The fees are fixed on the basis of a percentage of costs of building, but are not allowed in respect of schemes not approved by the Ministry of Health.

In respect of housing schemes for cottages and flats up to the number of 500, five per cent. is allowed on the first 25, then 3½ per cent. on the next 60, and 1½ per cent. on the next 175. Upon the next 250 cottages or flats the same rate is allowed, less 7½ per cent. of the total amount.

If the economic law finds itself in conflict with the Kingdom of God, then the economic law must be changed.—*The Bishop of Truro.INDO-CHINA*STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY, LIMITED.
